Global Sources supplier rankings

Suppliers are ranked using a 6-star ranking system. Companies with a higher star ranking provide more business information and verification reports on their Global Sources online homepages. Suppliers rated 5 or 6 stars have a Credit Check report from First Advantage or Sino-Trust and a Supplier Capability Assessment report provided by Bureau Veritas online. The rankings are correct at the time of publication and may be subject to change.

Smart home sales to grow amidst global pandemic

The global COVID-19 pandemic has caused an upsurge of work from home arrangements and has made home quarantine the new normal. With the majority of the population staying at home, interest and value in voice-controlled smart home devices has grown since they help minimize possible transmission on commonly touched surfaces like light switches, remotes, door handles and more. ABI Research estimates a 30 percent sales growth on voice-enabled units, with about 180 million units to be sold at the end of 2020. Buyers looking to source what's hot in the electronics market despite the pandemic can start sourcing smart home devices like voice-activated speakers, lights & controls and smart doorbells, which are readily available on Global Sources.

Smart speakers – These devices are popular with the Gen-Z youth and the millennials, the largest spending generation. The latest models now have added features like voice recognition in regional languages, music playback, and streaming and podcast support – which, in turn, attract more consumers. Some smart speakers can be used for online shopping. This convenience helps reduce face-to-face interactions in public, further decreasing any possible virus transmission.

Smart lighting – With smart lighting and home automation products, users won't have to constantly touch switches at home. House lights can all be controlled via smartphone apps, voice-control and motion. These energy-efficient smart lights can be operated remotely and can produce different variations of colored lights, which can make smart homes even more attractive.

Security – Home security products like smart doorbells and video cameras help avoid face-to-face interaction of homeowners and people outside. Conversations can be carried out via video doorbells and smart intercom systems. Deliveries being sent at home can be dropped directly at the doorstep. ABI Research Director Jonathan Collins states that these “delivery capabilities are especially valuable for those already in-home quarantine or for those receiving home testing kits.”

Collins adds that “a smarter home can be a safer home.” As the world adjusts by assimilating stronger safety measures against viruses, homes are getting smarter and safer as well.

COVID-19 increases demand for smart, personal transporters

According to Market Research Future (MRF), the global personal transporter market will accelerate at a robust pace of 8.5% from 2019 to 2025. It is expected to be valued at around 150 million units by 2025.

The coronavirus pandemic will likely impact this growth in the market as more people prefer personal transporters or electric-powered, short-distance and low-velocity vehicles for one to two people over public modes of transportation due to sanitation and social distancing measures.

As a result, personal mobility solutions have become a trend in the automotive industry. Among the top demands in the market are eco-friendly smart personal transporters, personal mobility transporters and personal e-transporters: e-bikes, e-scooters, hoverboards, and e-skateboards are also included in this product category.

Based on the MRF report, major brands such as Inmotion Technologies, Segway, and Honda are focused on developing products with reduced mass, advanced DSP processors, and better battery technology. In term of geography, Asia-Pacific is projected to have the majority of growth market share as people in countries like China, India, Japan and Vietnam have been keen to adopt the use of self-balancing scooters and two-wheelers.
