Induction vs Gas

Induction or gas cooking? If you're unsure about which type is best for your cooking needs, we're here to help you get familiarised before committing.

INDUCTION

In induction cooking, heat is created by an electromagnetic current that passes through a coil beneath the surface and only heats the pot or pan. No other surface on the cooktop is heated, making it very safe to use.

GAS

Known for its impressive fast ignition and strong power, gas cooking produces a fiery energy that quickly heats your pots and pans. The fire however, may excessively heat up your kitchen and is not safe if there are younger members in the house.

Healthy Steam Cooking

STEAM COOKING

PORTUGUESE ROAST CHICKEN WITH SWEET POTATO FRIES

Prep: 20 min | Cook: 65 min
Serves: 6 People

INGREDIENTS

- 2 x 1.5kg whole fresh chicken, cleaned
- 3 tbsp olive oil
- 2 tbsp Portuguese spice blend
- 2 tsp smoked paprika
- 2 x large garlic cloves, crushed
- 1 x lemon, rind finely grated then halved
- 1 tbsp thyme leaves
- 800g sweet potato, scrubbed
- Steamed green beans, to serve

GREEN CHILLI OIL

- ½ cup olive oil
- 2 x green chillies
- ¼ cup coriander leaves

METHOD

Place 1 chicken breast side down on a clean board. Using kitchen scissors, cut along either side of the backbone. Discard the backbone. Turn the chicken over and press down on the breastbone to flatten the chicken. Repeat with remaining chicken. Arrange chickens, breast side up in a large greased roasting pan.

Combine 2 tablespoons of the olive oil with the spice blend, paprika, garlic, lemon rind and thyme. Juice one lemon half, stir 1 ½ tablespoons into the marinade. Spoon over the chickens. Use fingertips to rub the marinade all over the chicken. Cut remaining lemon half in half and place into roasting pan with chickens.

Preheat oven to 200°C fan forced. Roast 55 minutes or until chicken is cooked through, cover and set aside 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, cut the sweet potato skin left on in 1cm-thick fries. Arrange on a lightly greased baking tray, drizzle with remaining oil, season well with salt and pepper. After the chickens have been in the oven for 40 minutes, add sweet potato fries above the chicken and roast 15 minutes. Once chicken is out of the oven, increase the oven temperature to 230°C. Cook the fries a further 10 minutes or until golden.

To make the chilli oil, combine all ingredients in a blender or small processor with salt and pepper. Blend or process until smooth.

Rangehood Buying Guide

Outdoor entertaining is a summer essential. As more housing designs incorporate outdoor kitchens, it's important to be aware of the safety and installation guidelines from councils, building regulators and Australian Laws.

SOUND

Sirius Alfresco rangehoods are high powered with low dBA ratings, meaning they are highly efficient with low noise ratings. With 24 years of developing the technology and design of rangehoods, Sirius provides top quality, stylish and functional rangehoods, suitable for any outdoor application.

EFFECTIVENESS

Sirius German-made EBM motors allow for the choice to move the motor away from the rangehood. Roof, eave or in-ceiling motor options can significantly reduce the sound of your hood. Additionally the motors used outside, such as the roof motor, are Marine grade standard, perfect for Australian seaside living.

SAFETY

Sirius ducting has a 4-zero fire rating. This relates to the resistance the material has to naked flames and heat produced from flare-ups. This means it is less likely to fuel a fire that has started in the BBQ.

MAINTENANCE

With removable and dishwasher safe baffle filters, Sirius' exclusive filter channels make their rangehoods super easy to clean. It's important to keep your rangehood and the filters clean as they are designed to collect excess fat, if the filters aren't cleaned regularly they can contribute to oil fires.

BASIC BURGER MIX

Difficulty: Easy | Cook: 30 min

INGREDIENTS

- 1 kg of coarsely minced meat from beef, lamb, pork or chicken and turkey with a fat content of approx. 30% (chicken 20%)
- 1 x large onion finely chopped
- 2 tbsp of breadcrumbs
- 1 cup of roughly chopped parsley
- 1 tsp of finely chopped thyme or dried oregano (optional)
- 1 tbsp of ghee or butter if you cook the burgers in a pan rather than BBQ.
- Freshly ground pepper

METHOD

- With your hands knead all ingredients into a bowl together and shape 4 or six burger patties of the thickness of your thumb and slightly larger than your bun.
- Place onto the griddle or flat plate of your BBQ (medium-high heat) and cook for approximately three minutes on each side and turning it carefully with a scraper rather than tongs.
- Check the cooking stages/temperatures where a beef or lamb burger is perfect when cooked medium to well and pork at medium well and chicken at well done.
- When cooked remove from the heat to avoid overcooking which will result in dry and chewy burgers.
- Cut the buns in half and shortly before your burgers are ready toast the buns (first cut side down) on the BBQ on both sides and start assembling them.
- Top your burger with your favourite toppings like cheese, tomatoes, beetroot, lettuce, mushrooms place into roasting pan with chickens.

Foolproof Fridge Stacking Guide

Tips for the Modern Aussie Family

To avoid pesky leakage or spills, keep raw meat and fish in sealed containers at the bottom shelf so they don't contaminate any other foods

Speed up your meal prep routine by storing leftovers in reusable containers or individual portions covered in plastic wrap on the bottom shelf for easy re-heating

Keep those ready to eat foods like cheese and yoghurt on the top shelves so they're easy to get to in a pinch

Extend the shelf life of your produce by storing it in the crisper drawers

Always store fruit and veggies separately in the crisper drawers. Fruit gives off ethylene which can cause the other produce to spoil more quickly

Store healthy snacks for the kiddos at eye level and within reach on the middle shelves. Berries and pre-cut veggies are the perfect grab and go option

With the temperature fluctuations that the fridge door experiences, items like condiments, butter and drinks are best kept here

Less temperature fluctuation means the middle shelf is a perfect spot for unopened dairy

Perfect Your Laundry

CREATE A LAUNDRY SPACE YOU'LL LOVE TO BE IN. WHETHER YOU'RE RE-BUILDING, RENOVATING OR ADDING NEW COMPONENTS, ENSURE THE SPACE HAS FUNCTION AND STYLE BY KEEPING THESE POINTS IN MIND:

- Place washers and dryers side by side instead of stacked for easy access.
- If you're tight on space, opt for the convenience of a combined washer-dryer.
- Make the most of bench space or create new bench space on top of your washers and dryers.
- Hang a rack or hanging rail over your wash tub to drip-dry clothes or to freshen delicates.
- Make the laundry multi-purpose for extra space. Insert a fold out ironing board or install extra cabinets for more storage. Alternatively, combine the laundry space with a study room, or combine wardrobe space for easy dressing and washing.
